BEES – ECOLOGY - HEALTH

Beyond Honey

The hive: pharmacy, pantry, and natural cosmetics

Bees are one of the most feared animals, but nonetheless they are probably some of the sweetest, and most under-estimated creatures on this planet. We hear constant news reports about how bees are dying, and that they are disappearing from our ecosystem because of human activity.

In this excursion we will delve into the world of bees: we will see how they live, the threats they are facing and why they are an indispensable element of life on earth. We will visit an apiary where we will be able to see them work closely, we will learn which products they give us (wax, honey, propolis, royal jelly,...), their properties and how we can use them in our daily life.

And we will do an organic honey tasting.
