D.O. Priorat:

The extreme Mediterranean made wine

To talk about Priorat today is to call it a global benchmark in quality product, which has managed to transform the harshness of the natural environment into modernity and tradition in the bottle. A territory that is a mosaic in itself, where the nuances in each of the basins are transformed into new dimensions of the world of the vineyard. The gray and impermeable sobriety of the licorellas makes a territory dominated by acidic, dry and extreme soils that guarantees the quality of the wine, and at the same time, in a short distance we are surprised by places with white granites that bring more contrast to the walk.

The activity will be offered in the heart of the Priorat, in a completely rural and agricultural environment to finish – if desired – with a tasting of local wines and products.
